

Transmech NZ Ltd

NZTTMF Member Since: 2000

Transmech are transport specialists.

A longstanding customer base with diverse requirements has provided Transmech with the expertise, experience and the workshop to handle just about every transport requirement, whether it is a build, a repair or a refurbishment.

Established in 2000, specifically for the road transport industry, the company was started by its twin founding directors Tony Cook and Anthony Couwenbergh who are still the hands-on driving force behind Transmech and under whose management Transmech has become the highly versatile, multi-faceted company it is today.

The manufacturing division includes aluminium and steel tippers, trailer chassis, container trailers and curtainsiders, as well as flat decks, box bodies and tractor setups—all tailored to a customer's specific requirements.

The mechanical division offers servicing of small to large commercial vehicles, clutch replacements, engine rebuilds, brake and gearbox repairs, and a mobile breakdown and after hours callout service.

Over at the modifications and refurbishments division, capabilities include chassis alterations, cab modifications, body swaps and wheel base alterations.

The company also has a fully-kitted repair workshop staffed with a complete complement of certified welders and skilled mechanics able to get any vehicle back on the road with faster turnaround.

Transmech, the company with the single focus—serving the road transport industry—proudly proclaims its pride in being able to offer customers such a diverse range of services to enable those customers to have all their needs met in one location.
